May I remind you at Dudley Planning and Regeneration the significance and importance of the Corbett Meadows green field site. I have received notification that once again this precious area has an unsure future and still may be at the risk of development. This seems to be never ending, of course these developers have the resources to constantly chip away at decisions previously made. Their profit motive should not in my opinion outweigh the importance and significance of this meadow to the local community.

I hardly need to tell you again the benefits of keeping this beautiful meadow out of the pockets of developers, but it is a historic and iconic green space and landscape in a otherwise built up area with ecological importance, and human physical and psychological benefits.

I would hope and urge that the Dudley Local Plan for the site to be designated as an area of regional importance for nature conservation be adopted for the sake of the community and to settle this matter for good.

Thank you
